

Are you the descendant of an American railroad worker?

Membership is eligible to all people who can prove lineal descent from a railroad worker who served between March 4, 1825 and December 31, 1950.

A "railroad worker" is defined as an individual who contributed to the building, maintenance, or administration of a railroad, commuter rail, or a street car system in the U.S., Mexico, or Canada. The qualifying ancestor does not have to be directly employed by a railroad company as long as there is proof of his/her contributions.

Acceptable service includes, but is not limited to:

- Baggage handlers/masters
- Brakemen
- Conductors
- Engineers
- Engine watchmen
- Express agents
- Firemen (who worked on board or in the railyards)
- Flagmen
- Hostlers
- Porters
- Railroad administration (officers, attorneys, accounting, etc. if employed by the railroad)
- Railroad laborers (as designated in the U.S. census)
- Railway mail clerks/agents (even if the U.S. Postal Service was their official employer)
- Section crew/gang
- Station agents
- Switchmen
- Telegraphers (employed by the railroad)
- Ticket agents
- Urban rail (including streetcars, subways and commuter rail, but not buses)
- Wipers

About NSDARW

The National Society Descendants of American Railroad Workers was formed in 2021 by Amanda Morris and Christopher Bowen to honor and preserve the legacy of our ancestors whose hard work enabled the expansion and prosperity of our country. We accomplish those goals through genealogical documentation, educational programming and support for historical preservation efforts related to American railroad history.
